“ I was Moshe's officemate for a time, and attended many meetings with him. A couple of times I asked him to explain concepts to me. On both occasions he was very generous with his time, and his explanation of a difficult concept was beautifully clear. Sometimes when I would go for a walk to settle my nerves, I would run into Moshe, also walking, deep in thought. He asked many insightful questions during talks that helped me to understand them better. I remember one talk where Moshe kindly and generously praised the speaker's work afterwards.
